PROGRAMME

Supporting Women and Children

Thari: a blanket that is used to cover and carry a child.

Learning outcomes in the schools in which Cyril Ramaphosa Foundation's partner entity Adopt-a-School works, are affected by many issues:

- gender-based violence • neglect
- dysfunctional families • gangsterism
- alcohol and substance abuse • teenage pregnancies • orphans and child-headed households

The Thari programme is a pilot programme to create safe and empowering school environments:

- free from violence • academically effective
- inclusive • gender sensitive • promotes health and well-being for all

Thari partners with specialists in child well-being and violence against women and children. It encompasses:

- psycho-social support services through Child and Youth Care Workers
- Safe Parks that function as recreational and life skills facilities and a therapeutic space for children requiring psycho-social and after school care support
- multi-sectoral networks of local organisations and professional services to address the social issues that make women and children vulnerable

As at June 2021:

- 834 children received psycho-social support including for sexual abuse, clinical depression, attempted suicides,

domestic violence, drug trafficking, drug abuse and gang-related violence

- 654 family members indirectly benefitted from psycho-social support
- 5 102 children and families involved in awareness campaigns
- 2 139 children accessed Safe Park services
- 2 community stakeholder forums established

Thari needs your support!
